

Improving the Health of Children & their Families

JSI in the United States

Throughout its 25-year history, JSI has built effective systems and facilitated integrated service delivery for our nation's most underserved children and their families. We can bring our extensive experience to assist communities, states and the federal government.

Building Integrated Systems of Care

Community Integrated Service Systems (CISS)- Convening stakeholder meetings and providing technical assistance to over 100 state and local level groups, organizations and health departments to improve health status of infants, children and their families. Interventions are aimed at overcoming systems barriers of duplicative services, categorical programs and uncoordinated, fragmented approaches by multiple public and non-profit sectors.

State and Local Systems Development – Implementing strategic planning, best practice identification, coalition building, conflict resolution and cultural competency skills building

Strengthening Prevention and Health Promotion

Parenting IS Prevention - Mobilizing parent groups to implement science based parenting programs and create community based partnerships towards youth substance abuse prevention.

Healthy Child Care America – Facilitating infrastructure building and quality assurance of health and safety assessment and intervention in child care settings in 53 states and territories.

Expanding Coverage for Uninsured or Underinsured

CHIP National Partnership Initiative – Developing evaluation for 11 national organizations to measure increased linkages and partnerships aimed at increased enrollment in CHIP and access to quality medical care

Children with Special Health Care Needs – Assisting states to implement programs aimed at ensuring adequate public and/or private health insurance coverage for these children and their families.

JSI works with public and private clients to address the nation's most pressing health issues.
