

Serving Community Health Centers

JSI in the United States

Nobody Knows Community Health Centers Like We Do.

The Community Health Center program and JSI both came into existence over 25 years ago. Since that time, JSI has worked extensively with the Bureau of Primary Health Care, its grantees, and other community-oriented providers that share our mission of eliminating health disparities and improving access to care. From the initial phases of needs assessment and planning for a new health center, through implementation of regional solutions based on delivery system integration, JSI's unique skills have assured successful initiatives that put the needs of the patients and the community first.
